Welcome to Excellence in Brief

This edition of the newsletter again finds ACELG at peak capacity. We have just hosted two highly successful research and dialogue events in Western Australia, and released a raft of new research papers aimed at assisting local government on issues such as workforce, infrastructure and strategic planning, shared services and other themes. There is more to come.

ACELG's work is not only intended for local government practitioners – the Centre and its research is also a useful resource for the many sector reform discussions currently underway, such as the Independent Local Government Review Panel in NSW (of which I am Chair), deliberations about local government in Western Australia and Tasmania, the Victorian Government's review of its planning system, the Northern Territory financial sustainability review (of which ACELG Chair Margaret Reynolds is a Taskforce member), and federally funded Local Government Reform Fund projects, to name a few.

Certainly change and sector reform is a constant; the difference in the current operating environment is that ACELG does and can exist for local government as a national resource for such reform discussions – a 'think tank' if you will.

Over the next few months ACELG's operation and sector contribution will be independently reviewed. I invite you to make contact with me or Assistant Director Melissa Gibbs to discuss where and to what extent our work has so far assisted local government achieve its aims.

You will notice in the following new item that the position of Director has been advertised. After more than a decade at UTS, I will be semi-retiring at the end of this year. My retirement is timed to ensure a new director has the opportunity to see the Centre through the second half of its life. We'll keep you posted on developments as they occur.

I encourage you read about our most recent work and achievements, and to forward this newsletter to your colleagues. Please don't hesitate to email or call if there's anything you wish to discuss about the Centre's work.

Graham Sansom
Director

Key ACELG Events and Engagement

Western Australia Research Showcase-Forum

Co-hosted by Edith Cowan University (ECU), ACELG's program partner in the west, this research event presented ACELG research findings relevant to the Western Australia sector and provided a forum for researchers to explore themes that may impact Western Australia local government in the future. A diverse array of papers was presented in two streams, and the event was attended by over 60 local government professionals and stakeholders. View the program and presentations here.

Roundtable on Western Australian Local Government

ACELG was very pleased that the Minister for Local Government, the Hon John Castrilli could attend and contribute to its Roundtable on Western Australian Local Government, also in Perth in July. The President of the Western Australian Local Government Association (WALGA), Mayor Troy Pickard, also provided opening remarks.

The Roundtable was chaired by Hon Margaret Reynolds and facilitated by ACELG Director, Graham Sansom. Attendees included representatives from WALGA, the state government and local government department, LGMA (WA), IPWEA (WA), plus senior representatives of a number of urban and regional councils and other key organisations.

ALGA Stand and LGMA Congress

ACELG staff and Chairperson, Margaret Reynolds, attended and discussed latest research at the ALGA 2012 National General Assembly in Canberra (mid-June). Staff also attended and presented at the LGMA National Congress and Business Expo in Perth (late May). Post-event information and documents can be viewed at the following links; ALGA and LGMA.

We thank ALGA and LGMA National for the opportunity to speak with their delegates about our work.

Rural-Remote and Indigenous Local Government Research

ACELG convened a search conference for CEOs from rural-remote and Indigenous (RRI) local government in Cairns in June and a roundtable of key stakeholder to review progress on the ACELG RRI program generally. The search conference will lead to the development of a series of recommendations and actions to enhance capacity. Workshop findings will be disseminated to CEOs and will shortly be available to download from the ACELG website.

For more information contact Melissa Gibbs.

Metropolitan Governance Roundtable

Representatives from government, business and academia convened for a roundtable about metropolitan governance at the University of Technology, Sydney on 7 June. The session was facilitated by Graham Sansom, and provided the opportunity to showcase and discuss a new ACELG discussion paper, An Australian Model of Metropolitan Governance: Insights from Perth and South East Queensland. View the paper and news item here.

Strategic Innovation and Local Government roundtable

The Innovation and Best Practice Program held a roundtable at the University of Canberra in May to facilitate a leaders 'think tank' to examine innovation and 'next practice' in the local government sector. More than 30 attendees participated, including senior council managers and elected officials, representatives from state-territory associations, Commonwealth and other agencies plus applied researchers-scholars. The Roundtable outcomes report is available here. For more information contact Paul Bateson.

Community governance research launch

The Evolution in Community Governance report was launched in Melbourne and Sydney recently, facilitated by Stefanie Pillora, ACELG's Research Program Manager. In Melbourne, it was launched at the City of Port Phillip on 4 May, and in Sydney on 10 May at the Bendigo Bank head office, attended by NSW Local Government Minister the Hon Don Page. This project was supported by the MAV, LGMA National and the Bendigo Bank. View the publication here, and view Minister Page's media release here.

2012 Executive Leadership Program Gaining Momentum

ACELG and ANZSOG have opened expressions of interest to attend the 2012 Excellence in Local Government Leadership Program (ELGLP). The program will run in two modules – September 24-28 (Sydney), and November 26-30 (Canberra). The ELGLP is a cutting-edge leadership program which aims to enhance professionalism and skills in local government, showcase innovation and best practice, and facilitate a better-informed policy debate.

"[The Program] demonstrates and encourages local innovation! Strong conversations about co-design, citizen centred policy development, collaboration and managing public value." - A 2011 Graduate.

Applications will be accepted until 13 August. View the brochure here. For more information contact Jane Durlacher, (03) 9035 3278 or j.durlacher@anzsog.edu.au.

Research Partnerships

ACELG is pleased to announce several new research partnerships:

- Wyndham Council, Surf Coast Shire Council, Nillumbik Shire Council and the new Democracy foundation to support the ANU in researching the role and future of citizens committees in Australian local government
- Hume City Council, Gwydir Shire Council and the Australian Learning Communities Network to support RMIT in researching the impact of learning partnerships as catalysts for change in local communities, and to examine the elements that can be applied to other local government areas
- University of Tasmania in undertaking a scoping study of Australian and international literature on the role of social enterprises and their relationships with Councils.

Asset Management and Financial Planning – Progress on a National Assessment Framework

The National Assessment Framework (NAF) on-line Portal is nearing completion and will be available for Councils shortly. The NAF will enable Councils to carry out an assessment of their current asset and financial management processes in line with the nationally consistent measures.

Councils will shortly be sent a log-on and password to undertake an assessment of their ability to provide sustainable service delivery into the medium to long term. This initiative is part of ACELG's 'Organisation Capacity Building' program.
